796 243 522 He then started a song about the post in which he was joined by Nitvary and the women. After two repetitions, the women poured a bowl of the soup on Matiwana's head and shoulders, making a dripping mess of him. He retired amid general laughter. The second bowl of soup was then poured over the pole. A full explanation of the beliefs surrounding the ole posts was not obtained.

796 243 608 Due to the fact that Quain had only recently arrived in the village when the ceremony was held, there is also a lack of clarity in the system of relationships known as ole aton. The word "aton" means "pet" in Trumaí, but in the present context it applies to a temporary ceremonial identification between people, and between people and the ole posts. The [571] interpersonal ties set up were only between persons of opposite sex. However, a man could have more than one woman for aton, and vice versa.

Kinship may be the determinant of these ties, but the data are inconclusive. Interestingly, the greatest number of ole aton relationships existed between people of the previously mentioned pairs of houses, suggesting a ceremonial reinforcement of this moiety-like arrangement.

Except for reciprocal gift-giving obligations, nothing is known of the behavioral roles called for by these connections. The owners of the ole posts were said to have their particular posts for atons. Their chief [782] ceremonial duties were to peel and paint the pole, and supply it with [778] food offerings. It may be hypothesized that the posts represent certain spirits with which individuals are identified, perhaps as the result of shamanistic experiences, as described by Oberg for the Kamayurá.[6]

796 829 181 During the ole ceremony, as during the cure described above, Quain was impressed by the lack of interest in the proceedings. Those who were not part of the immediate activity sat and smoked, indulging in the usual topics of conversation. The loose patterning and secularity which characterized the ritual bespoke the general lassitude that permeated all aspects of the culture.

The Piquí Ceremony

796 The piquí (tsinon) ceremony occurred at the end of the harvest of that fruit, during the first half of the rainy season. It was similar to the ole celebration, but not as lengthy nor as important. Quain's information on the festival, obtained from Aloari, is very limited. Jakwanari, the main functionary, occupied a position similar to that of Matiwana and Nitvary in the ole ceremony. As Aloari phrased it, "Jakwanari had tsinon as aton." There was house-to-house dancing by the women, accompanied by singing of a certain series of songs. At the end of the dancing Jak- [262] wanari's wife made a large quantity of t'ak, the piquí flour cake, which
